TEACHING EXPERIENCES

GUEST LECTURER (Human-Centered Computing)

Spring 2025 Interface for Information Visualization & Retrieval (HCC 706) | UMBC
Class activity: "Your Korean Tutor YouTube Analytics Report"
Developed a class activity for information visualization. Presented how marketing data can be analyzed and visualized at work and led a class activity for students to gain hands-on experience through real-life problem-solving, using the Looker Studio data visualization tool and the existing YouTube data from the Your Korean Tutor channel.

Fall 2024 User Experience of Virtual and Augmented Realities (IS/HCC 698) | UMBC
Mini-lesson: "360-degree Video Content Creation"
Developed a mini-lesson, including a presentation on my VR study for Korean language learning, introduction to 360° video content creation, required readings, in-class activities to experience 360° videos in VR and test 360° cameras, and assignments for creating two different types of 360° videos for real-life situations in groups. Led the class for this VR content creation project and graded students' deliverables.

2022 – 2023 User Experience of Virtual and Augmented Realities (IS/HCC 698) | UMBC
Presented my VR study for Korean language learning and helped students with their immersion experience through 360° videos in VR using different types of VR headsets, phone-based VR headsets vs. cutting-edge VR headsets.

Fall 2019 Advanced Field Research Methods (IS 805) | UMBC
Presented the VR usability evaluation and introduced demo activities. Helped my mentee lead the class for students' demo activities in two different labs and their debriefing sessions.

2018 – 2019 Human-Centered Design (HCC 729) | UMBC
Co-developed a three-sequence class activity for VR usability evaluation and instruments. We presented the VR usability evaluation, led the class for demo activities in two different lab environments, i.e., the User Studies Lab and the Green-Screen Studio, for students' hands-on experience, and facilitated students' debriefing sessions.

MENTOR (Human-Computer Interaction)

Fall 2019 Raghurai Kulkarni, Master's Student in Human-Centered Computing) | UMBC
Mentored his research project about VR usability evaluation (HCC 700)
